Smart Choice 2 Workbook Answer Key - waifabde Smart Choice Unit 5 Workbook Answers Posted by Erin Smith at 16:09 Labels: unit 5, workbook answers 1. Embodiments of the invention relate generally to integrated circuit (IC) manufacturing, and more particularly to a method for highly accurate and efficient alignment of 2 or more integrated circuit wafers. As the density of integrated circuits and circuit features continue to decrease, alignment between the tops of the wafers containing the integrated circuits and the reticle used to fabricate the integrated circuits becomes more difficult. For example, small alignment marks such as a 5- $\mu\text{m}$  diameter circle on each wafer and a corresponding alignment mark on the reticle are usually used to align the reticle with the wafer. After alignment, each wafer is placed on the reticle and the assembly is then placed in an oven to perform the photolithographic process of transferring the pattern from the reticle to the wafer. To align each wafer with the reticle, each wafer has an alignment mark such as a circle with a diameter of 5- $\mu\text{m}$ . The 5- $\mu\text{m}$  alignment mark on the wafer includes a middle portion that is smaller than an edge portion. The middle portion of the alignment mark is generally used to align the wafer. The wafer is placed on the reticle, and the reticle is aligned with the middle portion of the alignment mark, which has a diameter of about 4- $\mu\text{m}$ . As an example, each side of the reticle is placed with the center point of the reticle aligned with the center of the alignment mark on the wafer, and then the reticle is rotated 90 degrees to align the reticle with the edge portion of the alignment mark on the wafer. This process of aligning the reticle with the middle portion of the alignment mark is generally called misalignment compensation. Current alignment between wafers and reticles may result in various amounts of misalignment between wafers. For example, a misalignment between wafers of about 0.5- $\mu\text{m}$  may result in a misalignment between the wafers of about 0.5- $\mu\text{m}$ , which may not be very significant. However, if two wafers are misaligned by more than about 1- $\mu\text{m}$ , the resulting wafers
